

Andrew QH. VanWieren

December 13, 2006 - February 19, 2024

Andrew QH. VanWieren, age 17, of Holland, passed away unexpectedly on Monday, February 19, 2024.

He was preceded in death by his Grandma Sandra VanWieren.

Andrew was a Junior at Hamilton High School.

Andrew is survived by his parents, Tim and Cindy VanWieren and Cynthia Tagg; sister, Samantha VanWieren; Tim (Kate) Meyer, Ben (Jennalee) Meyer, Sarah (Tyler) Lipscomb and sisters, Brooke Sakowski and Kylee Sakowski, Grandparents, Carl VanWieren, Carol and Carl Van Dyke. 8 nieces and nephews, Aunt Cathy (Joel) Rodriguez and numerous other aunts, uncles and cousins.

Andrew was an avid outdoorsman who passionately enjoyed fishing the most. Andrew loved animals, especially his cat, "fat cat". Saying that Andrew had a big heart was an understatement. He had so much love and care for those around him. He was sometimes shy and quiet but what he did have to say was often very witty. Andrew knew how to be a friend and he was a friend to many. He will be missed more than words can say.

“ During high school, Andrew was more of a friend-of-friends to me. I wasn't very close to him. Back in middle school, though, we had way more experiences together. In the 17-18 and 18-19 middle school yearbooks, you can see he's in my old Links group, the "Cat Bouncers." Links was a program that was probably intended for someone with more severe challenges than me, but we had a great time there anyway. I remember we laughed about Andrew's appetite; we catered but he always brought a sack lunch anyway. Andrew was a good man, and although we weren't close after a while, I know many people to whom he was a great friend. He genuinely improved people's lives by being around, and honestly, I'm happy he was ever around in the first place. I really wish I could have been better friends with Andrew. Maybe he'd still be alive, who knows? Time travel paradoxes, after all. I miss you, dude. You meant the world to many people.

“ A little after summer break of this year, if I recall correctly, I saw Andrew again for the first time since middle school (I'm a junior in high school) at youth group on a Sunday night. We clicked again pretty quick, and I was pretty excited to see him. Little did I know, he had become interested in a lot of the same things I had! I remember how wide his and my grins were when he showed me his audio setup, the discussions about vinyl and different musicians we both liked, nerding out about anime, getting excited about cars and trucks, and when he'd humbly talk about his weight lifting journey. We got together as a small group once at a friend's house, and we played video games together and then got super deep biblically for like... an hour straight, and we got embarrassed at one point thinking he was bored, but dude was just listening and learning like a champ. He always seemed to have a monster energy with him and he carried a demeanor that showed how much he truly cared about the people around him. He was always a little quieter than I am, but I'm truly glad to have gotten to talk with him as much as I did. As short as his time was with our group, he made a real impact on all of us, and his passing has been difficult for many of us to process. Andrew, I miss you man, and I'm sorry we never got to lift together or go cruising. I know you're out laying down rubber on some golden pavement, and I'm glad you aren't in pain anymore. Can't wait to see you again. Fly high, brother.

“ I remember last summer me and Andrew were both sleeping over at a friends house and the night we got there we stayed up until 6am laying outside under the stars and just talking about life. the next morning Andrew woke me up at 8am while everyone else was sleeping because they didn't go to sleep until late either. Andrew had his bathing suit on and he told me to get mine on because we're going swimming even though it was 50 degrees out and it was the middle of November but we still went swimming and got back to the house before anybody else was awake I don't think anybody even knew we left.

“ I remember when you came into this world on a sunny December Friday, the 13th. I was lucky enough to hold you shortly after you were born. We brought you home to your little house on Coit Avenue and i stayed to take care of you and your mom. I'll always cherish those memories of you. Andrew i will miss you, your smile and your beautiful soul. Look after your mom from heaven, you beautiful, beautiful boy.

“ I loved watching Andrew grow and mature into such a polite and thoughtful young man his freshman year. I will always remember how sweet he was and his smirky smile. It took a little time, but once you got to know him it was obvious that he had a big heart. He will be forever missed at Hamilton High School. Prayers for your family.
