“ *"Carrie was a big influence in my life growing up. She gave me good advice many times while she was my Sunday School teacher...one time saying "that every person we date should be someone we would marry or why spend the time dating him?" She gave me my first bike as a young gal and I went riding to see her and her mom many times... Art and Carrie were who we looked up to during our dating years and beyond.. Thankyou! “ "Beer cans. Carrie and Connie both picked up aluminum cans while walking along Adams St. Carrie walked east, Connie walked west. We lived a mile apart so they would often meet and chat. Those chats spawned a lasting relationship and a good-natured, ongoing rivalry over who had collected the most cans and who was stealing whose cans. After all, there was that ten-cent deposit. A lot of life has happened since those days but on countless occasions, Connie has fondly told people about Carrie and their beer can competition. Drenthe has lost a pillar. Art, you are in our prayers. You have our deepest sympathy."
