“Grandma will be missed, but I am glad she is at rest and peace. I am sure she was comforted over the last week by the support of the family. I asked her one time about the changes she had seen in her lifetime (from growing all your own food, eating what was available, and drinking your own cow's milk vs. running to town to the store to pick up whatever you want to all the technology changes) and I asked her if it felt like change happens too fast or if you just roll with progress as it marches forward. She said you just roll with it. I suppose that's what we will need to do as we adjust to her absence. Thinking of the family and see you soon.”
