“ I first met Jane when I started working at the BBC. I have to admit that I didn't quite know what to think of her when I first started. She was a prankster, sassy and bold, but she looked out for everyone on that unit, patients and staff alike. She practically ran that unit! We quickly became friends, found out we had so many things in common, we said we were kindred spirits, like in Anne of Green Gables. Over the years she supported me through some incredibly difficult family challenges, two of her favorite sayings to me were, “It is what it is”, and “Let Go, and Let God”. She told me these things many times over the years. She would show up at my house to help me with something, always bringing her cinnamon rolls. Her and Bill came up to visit us on Lake Leelanau several summers in a row, and we had some enjoyable visits and boat rides. She made me laugh, she made me cry, sometimes on the same day. She loved going out to eat, didn't matter which meal, she loved them all. She loved God, her family, her friends and her coworkers, and we all loved her. I'm already missing her terribly, and it's only been 2 days! She fought incredibly hard, this difficult cancer journey that she was on for 2 1/2 years, she was not a complainer, even while fighting cancer she was more worried about everyone else. God sure got a good one on Tuesday night! And we will do our best to be there for Jessica and Stephanie, and the rest of her precious family. Now she can rest.

“ I have known the Mc Carty family for over thirty four years , I was fortunate to be a neighbor. Jane was the glue that held everyone together, and Jesus held her. Jane was calm and assuring, kindhearted and loving. She had a lot of trials. but as we would meet in person, or over the phone, we prayed, and she always knew where to take her burdens, and trust God for every concern. Today she is celebrated here and in Heaven, her joy is finally complete. She now will enjoy everlasting life with her Savior and Lord and all those who have gone before her. Of course, there will be a space empty that only Jane could fill, but she completed here purpose and Jesus has already said, "Well Done!"
My prayers for Jess and Stephanie and their families , Jesus will carry you, He is only a prayer away.
Love and prayers,

“ Jane was excellent at her work on Boven Birth Center, but she also was quite the mischievous individual. I will keep these memories of fun with her in my heart, always. I loved her as a co-worker, and as a friend. All who knew her, worked with her, and shared time with her, will miss her dearly. My deepest sympathy to her family and friends.
