

Sherwin W. Kamps

November 23, 1933 - November 11, 2023

Sherwin Wayne Kamps, age 89, of Zeeland, went to be with his Lord and Savior Jesus Christ on Saturday, November 11, 2023, at his home.

He was born on November 23, 1933, to George and Arendena (Cramer) Kamps. He married his beautiful bride, Ruth Laninga, on January 27, 1955. Sherwin served in the US Army from 1956-1958 teaching about missiles at Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, AL. He was a business owner with Gordon Laninga and technician of Laninga Appliance in Byron Center for 40 years. Sherwin was a member of Central Wesleyan Church of Holland. Because of his commitment to Jesus, Sherwin incorporated his love of travel and passion for helping others by using his wide skill set on many mission trips near and far. This included time spent with children and grandchildren's projects such as painting, electrical work, roofing, tree trimming, landscaping, and gardening, etc. Sherwin's greatest investment in life was FAMILY and that shaped his life and decisions daily.

Sherwin was preceded in death by his siblings, Anna and Mel Huyser, Irene Kamps, John H. and Mary Ruth Kamps, Thelma and Henry Hoekman, Harvey and Lorraine Kamps, George and Joyce Kamps, Lois and Don Terpstra, Marcella and John Bosch; in-laws, Michael Yankiv, Carol and Gerald Rietberg, and Gordon Laninga.

“ Uncle Sherwin was just a wonderful uncle -- always joyous, playful, helpful, and kind. He was so special to my dad too -- George had so many good stories of their trips, antics, adventures and childhoods. George had hid a 22 rifle in the basement rafters. Sherwin found it and shot w/o George knowing. Such a stinker. Wayne now has the gun on his wall. As kids, we loved visiting Uncle Sherwin and family. Uncle Sherwin took me snowmobiling when I was, perhaps, 12. That power, that snowsuit, mmmmmmm, memories. And the motorcycle he took up to the cottage. I rode it a few times with my dad. First time ever riding a motorcycle. Inspired me to build one. And the blue ski boat with a 40 horse Evinrude engine that took us and all the cousins skiing around Big Star Lake for years. And canoeing with our cousins -- I remember him singing "canoe 52, where are you?" to the tune of Scooby-Doo when we got separated from Glenda and Laurie on the river. And cherry picking with the gang -- riding in the trunks of the cars across dirt roads. Was that legal? Probably not, but fun, yes! And fishing with Sandie and me. It was with Uncle Sherwin and Sandy that I caught the biggest fish of my life up to that point. After dragging that monster into the boat, Uncle Sherwin said "Hey, Sandy, keep one of your medium fish. I'll put a minnow on my hook. Then let's go back to the cottage and each of us will go in and say 'Look what I caught!' and hold up our fish. I'll go first, then Sandy, and then Mark can show off his bass." So that's what we did! The picture is attached. I'll never forget it. He and his family brought us so much joy as we traveled from New Jersey to Michigan through those years. We're thanking the Lord for his new and better home.

With love to Ruth and all my cousins,
Mark Kamps

“ Uncle Sherwin has been very good to and for me and my family. Early on, he taught us to ride his horses and ponies. He gave us a section of land for a garden next to the road on Byron Center Avenue. It allowed me to get some spending money by selling pickles and cucumbers to the neighbors, which got me the nickname “pickles” by people who lived two streets over from me. Later he made an acre of his property available for my mom and dad to build a new house by his house. Mostly, to me he was a good Christian role model as were all the Kamps uncles, whom I miss dearly. He always met me with an uplifting “Hi Johnny” and a welcoming smile. I like to think I will hear and see that again when it is time for me to leave this world behind.

“ In the early to mid 60s Reuben and I would be invited to Uncle Sherwin and Aunt Ruth’s old farm house on Byron Center Avenue in the summer time. There, we’d load pig manure on a wheel-barrel with pitch forks, wheel it out to the pickle garden, and place it around the pickle plants. When the work was done, we’d saddle the ponies, Shadrack and Fireball, and ride them through the woods behind the house. Other days, we’d explore the swamps located some distance away from the Farm House behind their property and through the woods, located where the Wyoming City Water Tanks are now. The poem Explorers is an expression of our experiences there and then. At harvest time, we were allowed to pick all the pickles we desired and sell them around the neighborhood. Times were tough for us financially. We didn’t have any of our own money unless we found a way to earn it, and Uncle Sherwin gladly provided us useful work and a way to earn money. bruce harvey: kamps

EXPLORERS

*In shallow swamps midst willow trees
And sun with simmering heat
Bare backs and afloat
On a makeshift boat
Drift my brother and me.*

*No place for a sail,
One hand for the pail,
The other cupped and wet
As leaves glide by on reflected sky,
No land in sight as yet.*

*A bird perched near with indignant sneer
Its presence a welcome clue
Just a little bit more
We'd beach on some shore
And rest a moment or two.*

*Explorers were we, in an uncharted sea
New lands and islands to reach.
Now yonder in view
In a light brown hue
Peeks a formerly unknown beach.*

*With excitement as high as the sun in the sky
Our provisions dangerously low
Ages since we set
And our feet were wet
And we really should patch that hole.*

*We hauled EXPLher ashore with shoulders sore.
Provisions were the first thing at hand
And so we agreed
To accomplish the deed
Then we'd survey the land.*

*Tired no longer, curiosity stronger,
We cautiously scouted about
Making quite sure
When we ended our tour
We'd find it backtracking our route.*

*Over stumps and humps and valleys creased deep,
Stagnant with turtles and frogs
On our hands and our knees
We ducked under the trees
And stumbled under half hidden logs.*

*Now thicket on the left and marsh on the right
And ahead the forest unknown
The sun hovered low
Causing shadows to grow
And somewhere a sinister moan!*

*High leaves bristled in arthritic oak trees
As shivers came whisking in.
I heard them complain
Of the soon coming rain
With creeks from their crippled limbs.*

*Blue sky faded as clouds settled in.
The sun shown hazes of red.
"There was yet quite a trail
And some water to bail
Before we'd get home," we said.*

*As seasoned explorers it took little time
To the place where we left our boat.
Then, a push and a pull,
It was stubborn as a bull,
But soon we had it afloat.*

*We pushed on new poles as ripples fanned by
In reflections vague with dim light.
Amazing the way
The colors turn gray
When day retires to night.*

*As water leaked slowly in only the seams,
We knew that we had done well
In patching the hole
With a chunk of charcoal
And some pitch from a pine tree that fell.*

*At last we arrived at a familiar place
Where the water was dark and deep.
And pushing the poles
Into bottomless holes
Slowed us to barely a creep.*

We hand paddled across the murky lagoon

*The wind blew briskly now.
Though ages it took
Like reading a book,
We finally got there somehow.*

*We then gathered up the bullheads we caught
In schools we dipped with a screen.
Like black polliwogs
That turn into frogs
Only these would never be green.*

*With flashlights in hand, we made our way back
To the farmhouse through woods and fields
And dropped our fish off
In the old horse trough
As rain spattered on the windshields.*

*Our turtles were glad to see what we had
But there was no time to play,
Soon we'd be fed
Then tucked into bed
But tomorrow was another day.
B.H. Kamps 1982*

Reuben and I had many adventures at, and back in the swamps behind, Uncle Sherwin and Aunt Ruth's house.
